

Please leave the "No Call" law as it is. I pay for my phone service and shouldn't have to pay to have my privacy invaded by annoying telemarketing phone calls. I can't tell you how many times I've been interrupted by automated dialing telemarketers and when I've answered the phone, there is no one there, but as soon as I resume what I was doing previous to the call, their automatic dailer calls back and interrupts again. This has happened as many as 4 times in one evening. As far as telemarketers being allowed to call for 18 months after discontinuing their services--ABSOLUTELY NOT! Their services are being terminated for a reason and if they are allowed to call for up to 18 months (or to call at all) is harrassment and should not be tolerated. Want to change the law? Require telemarketers to show who is calling, phone number included on the caller ID to make it easier to track the offenders. I value my privacy. When I am at home, I enjoy the peace and quiet of being there. I don't need or want people calling trying to sell me something I don't want and not taking NO for an answer. If I want a service, I will contact the company I want to do business with. Why would telemarketers still want to call me anyway, I keep telling them no, I will not buy from a telemarketer--why do they want to waste their time and money calling me? If they think it is because they will "convince" me to buy their product, their "convincing" will be taking on the form of harrassment. Obviously, there are enough people out there who are tired of being harrassed by telemarketers or we wouldn't have needed the no call list to begin with. There are still violations of that no call list as it is, please don't make it any easier for these people to invade our private lives.
